

Civil Ceremony Script 3

_____ And _____, you have come here today to affirm your love, pledge your faith to one another, and to enter into the joys and privileges of marriage. It is not a decision to be entered into lightly, but rather with careful consideration, and with the greatest respect for one another.

Marriage represents the close and personal union of two lives. Your marriage brings the promise of a love that is genuine and fulfilling. To nurture this love, you must freely and wholeheartedly commit to one another, creating a shared life that is richer, deeper, and more meaningful.

Officiant to the Groom:

Please repeat after me: I, _____ // do not know of // any lawful reason // why I may not be joined in marriage // with _____.

Officiant to the Bride:

Please repeat after me: I, _____ // do not know of // any lawful reason // why I may not be joined in marriage // with _____.

Officiant to Both: Please Face one another and hold Hands.

Officiant to the Groom:

I, _____, // take you _____ // to be my lawful wedded wife.

Officiant to the Bride:

I, _____, // take you _____ // to be my lawful wedded husband.

By virtue of the powers vested in me by the Marriage Act, I hereby pronounce you Husband and Wife.
